CONDITIONS One of the things I learned as a boy was that even if we falled to observe the seventh or Sabbath day as a day of rest on religious grounds, seventh day should be a day of rest for the sake of health. It was pointed out that when a certain nation decided to make every 10th day a day of rest instead of every seventh day, the health of the people suffered and every seventh day was Dr. Barton again established as a day of rest. Today we are facing the problem of how to get the most work done each week or each day and how much time should be given to sleep and to recreation in order to get the most and the best work done.

An editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association, entitled "Fatigue and Working Conditions" states: "Mechanization, speeding of industrial processes and mass production of the war effort have combined to present new problems in industrial health. The illness of the workers, their accident rates and the amount of work they do have been shown to be closely related to fatigue."

Now, we all get tired at times but the amount or degree of tiredness varies with how much and how monotonous or interesting our work is, and how long we stay at work each day or each week.

Quoting Dr. R. R. Sayers who made extensive studies of fatigue, there are three degrees of fatigue; (a) temporary, (b) moderate (subacute), and (c) chronic fatigue. Temporary fatigue passes away after a short rest and work is resumed and performed as well as before. Subacute or moderate fatigue requires more rest or chronic fatigue may occur. Chronic fatigue may end with disabling illness.

How many hours should our men and women work? Some industrial plants who have tried 14, 12 and 10 bicycle. Excess Weight Shortens Life

One hundred years ago the expectation of life was about 40 years; today it is more than 63 years. A gain of 25 years in life span in less than 100 years breaks all previous records. The fact that more babies are saved at birth and during the first year is one hig factor in lengthening the life span; another is the saving of life from the infectious diseases of childhood by the use of vaccines. And now with the sulfanilamide drugs, pneumonia, which formerly had a death rate of nearly 10 percont, has a death rate of less than I per cont.

Your family will like eating outdoors for nothing seems so good as beef barbecues or hamburgers served in the open when appetites are their sharpest, or coffee made on a make-shift stove from a couple of large bricks maneuvered to hold the old granite coffee pot in place. needed, and not too often given. The word means to put some new thing into the heart of another, that is, to hearten and assure him, especially distance between the earth and the moon. Moses, in all probability the world's greatest military and national leader, was about to lead his people out from under the mighty hand of Pharaoh. His final preparation for that epochal deed and all the years to follow was a personal meeting with God. Possibly it was the mistake Moses had made and which caused him to be sent into the back of the desert, that now caused him to move with-

I. Understandable Caution (Exod.

There is something remarkably fine about real humility. It commends itself to our thinking as the proper attitude of a mortal being, particularly in the face of spiritual responsibility.

Neither God nor man dares entrust a high and difficult commission to foolish man who brusquely "rushes in where angels fear to tread." The fact that one feels fully and unhesitatingly qualified to take over such a responsibility is almost a certain indication that he is not the man to assume it.

Moses' request for God's backing must have been acceptable to Him, for He gave Moses-

II. Unlimited Authority (3:14-16). Moses went as God's messenger. He was authorized to put all the majesty and power of the Infinite One behind his words and acts.

The ambassador must have credentials. God's representative has them. When "they shall say"-what an important and difficult situation that creates. The one who speaks for God must expect not only the scornful bitterness of God's enemies, but also the unbelieving questions of those whom he seeks to serve.

"What shall I say?" asks Moses, and God answers that he may say that "I AM" had sent him. This name of God reveals Him as the eternal, independent, self-sufficient, self-existent, immutable, personal Being. Consider, Christian brethren, whose we are and whom we

III. Unjustified Humility (4:10-13). Perhaps we should not call this humility at all, for in one so divinely called and encouraged it was an act of unbelief and almost impertinence.

When God calls a man He knows his limitations. Why then should serving? The excuse of Moses that he was not a fluent speaker has been the standby of unwilling workers all through the ages. When asked to lead a prayer meeting, teach a Sunday school class, conduct a young people's meeting, thousands upon thousands have lamely thus excused themselves and missed a blessing. The perfect answer of God (v. 11) merits attention. God made your mouth and mine. He gives us the power of speech. He asks not the eloquence of polished rhetorical phrases, or the flights of man's imagination. He wants but the incomparable eloquence of His own words on our lips.

No man should think too highly of himself, but let him beware lest he think too lowly about God. We are not sufficient for the opportunity. But God is more than sufficient.

Having called Moses, God saw to it that Moses went on with His work, even though now He had to call in Moses' older brother to help him. It was, in fact, an-

IV. Unnecessary Substitution (4: 14-17).

Loving and patient is our God, but, mark it well, there is a boundary line to that patience. Moses went too far in his needless humility, and really reflected on the ability of God. God promptly substituted Aaron as the spokesman.

Gracious was He in thus providing a helper for Moses. But one wonders what Moses missed of blessing and power because of his slowness of heart. To decline the labor and the responsibility of service for God means loss far greater than we may ever know.

God's dealings with Moses speak sloquently to us of His willingness. to enable and use a man who lacked some of the gifts for leadership. Let none of us be like Moses and become involved in nuclear worry about our gifts, and forget God's purpose and enabling power. When God swills, our gifts are not the contrailing factor; in fact, they are not a great factor at all. The question then becomes, In God abla? Let us trust and obey Him.

When Congress legislates on labor policy, the White House declares it must be held responsible for future strikes in industry.

When Congress turns "thumbs down" on the subsidy program, with which the New Deal hopes to again buy control over agriculture, the White House tars it with the inflation brush. (And apparently it has won a point here).

When Congress wields the economy axe on non-war bureaus and on overpadded Federal agencies such as the OWI, the charge of playing politics and aiding and comforting the enemy he hurled.

Because of Mr. Davis' recognized ability, the appointment was widely acclaimed, although there was grave doubt at the time that he had been given powers commensurate with his responsibility. Now, ninety days later, his resignation is accepted by the President in a letter which makes no pretense of hiding bad feeling.

There were two basic reasons for Mr. Davis' decision to resign: First, because he found he had assumed a public responsibility while the authority, not only over broad food palicy, but day-to-day decision, is being exercised elsewhere. Second because he was not in sympathy with, and lacked confidence in the efficiery of the administration's roll-back subsidy program. These certainly are valid reasons for resignation, and Mr. Davis should be commended for stating them with candor. But the President, in his letter accepting the resig-National Advertising, 40c Col, Inch nation, made full use of innuendo to rebuke Mr. Davis. Mr. Rocsevelt answered this by im-

This is tantamount to saying that there is no place in the administration for any one who does not subscribe wholeheartedly to the President's program, no matter what its defects. And even as to defects, the President takes no responsibility. He blamed Congress for the lack of a real tax program, although the responsibility lies at least in part with his administration, and he ignored the reasons for the failure to devise an effective savings program, which is the direct result

THE STORY SO FAR: The story of their part in the battle for the Philippines is being told by four of the five naval officers who are all that is left of Motor Torpedo Boat Squadron 3. They are Lieut, John Bulkeley (new Lieutenant Commander), squadron commander; Lieut, R. B. Kelly, second-in-command; and Ensigns Anthony Akers and George E. Cox Jr. March 11 Lieut. Bulkeley showed the squadron their secret orders. They were to take General MacArthur's party and some additional personnel to the southern islands. When they arrived safely at Cebu, General Mac-Arthur promised Bulkeley he would try to get him and his key men out of the

CHAPTER XII

"The skipper was frantic to get some of our little fleet back into commission so we could finish out the fight. We'd started the war with six boats. Two were lost off Bataan. One was lost on the escape trip south. That left only three, and two of these were wrecks, fit only for the dry dock, Bulkeley's being the only craft left in fighting condition. But he was bound to get the others back into shape. Did I think I could get mine to Cebu?

"Well, we could try, and we started off, my poor old boat with her earthquake making twelve knots, her back end wiggling like a shipwrecked sailor's dream of a French musical-comedy star. Whatever she was good for now, it wasn't fighting, and I was glad we didn't meet any

"The machine shop was run by 'Dad' Cleland, a seventy-one-yearold American who'd been in the islands since 1914, and a swell gent he was-originally from Minnesota and a typical hulking frontiersman. Didn't look a day over fifty and was a kind of patriarch in those parts. His native name meant 'the old man' or 'the headman' in Tagalog. "He was a great gourmet, too. Had Bulkeley and me out to dinner and we had bottled beer (a great rarity), a big crab-meat cocktail, and then lobster Newburg, which he broke out a couple of roast ducks. "Dessert was simple, like the last bars of a symphony. Just delicious chilled mangoes and Chase & Sanborn's coffee. It was a magnificent feed after the native chow I'd been eating. We talked about the war. People in Cebu felt the show was about up, unless miraculous help ar-

" 'Dad' was working for the government for a dollar a year. When e finally finished with our repairs -they took many days-we asked him how much the bill was. "We'll forget about it,' he said. 'You fight 'em and I'll fix 'em. It's the least I can do.'

"He clenched his big fist, and it was about the size of a nail keg. Since I've come back here I've read about some outfits working on war contracts who were paying their stenographers fifty thousand dollars a year and charging it to the government as expenses until they were caught. It's a waste of time to indict them. Just get old 'Dad' Cleland back here and let him go in and reason with them in their swival chairs. With those big fists of reports had come in giving the proghis, he'd know how to expostulate ress of the Jap destroyers. Obviwith racketeers like that.

been paid since the war started. Well, in Cebu the men all got paid and it was quite a spectacle. The dozen on my boat, going from bar to har, got rid of two thousand dollars in three days. If it had been two million instead, they would have got rid of it just as quick, although it might have strained them some. Then they settled back to their postine means of livelihood, which was playing poker with the army.

"But things were moving in Cebu, and very secretly we began to hear nints of a big American offensive which was coming rolling up from the south through the islands in time se save fisteen, which was almost out of food and ammonition. Word came that two submarines were arriving in Cobs, where they would he honded with food and returned to Substitutes brought the first one as foreign the channel.

Because in addition to the subs-the last one shoved off on April 5-there were seven fat interisland steamers being secretly loaded with food down near 'Dad' Cleland's dock-medical supplies, quinine the boys were dying without, everything they needed to hold on. But how could they hope to get these fat little tubs up through the islands to Bataan? Bulkeley was to find out three days

"The General in command at Cebu called me in and verified the hints we'd heard of the big American offensive," said Bulkeley. "He assured me everything was set. It was to start at dawn the very next morning. That very night, twelve fortresses and heavy bombers were coming up from Australia. A swarm of P-35's were on their way up from Mindanao to Iloilo, where they were to gas up and go into action.

"The bombers were to land at Mindanao, gas up, take off, and blow the be-Jesus out of every Jap warship in the region, and meanwhile the convoy of interisland steamers would start for Bataan, bringing food enough for weeks. Bataan was to be saved after all.

"The General showed me messages from all the other generals who commanded in different islands, co - ordinating the offensive. But there was one minor hitch, he explained.

"Aerial reconnaissance had spotted a couple of Jap destroyers steaming down the coast of Negros was riding in the 41 boat, Ensign Cox commanding, while Kelly had his 34 boat. We'd worked out our strategy. If two destroyers showed up, my boat was to tackle the leading one and Kelly the second. If only one arrived, my boat would attack her on the quarter, and Kelly's on the bow. "At five minutes to twelve Glover, the quartermaster at the wheel, called 'Look-there she is!' A black object was coming round the point. 'Jumping Jesus!' said Glover. 'There she is!'-because it was no little Jap destroyer but a thundering big Kuma class cruiser sliding

"I gave our boat a hard right rudder, sneaking in toward the shore where the cruiser couldn't see us. Apparently she was alone. Now we curved out, into firing position, on her port beam, making as little noise as we could, and as she passed, five hundred yards away, Cox fired two torpedoes, but they straddled

"We fired two from our side," said Kelly, "but they also missed." "After that," said Ensign Cox, "we in the 41 boat made a wide are and attacked again with our last two torpedoes-Bulkeley himself firing them, and this time two of them hit, right under the bridge. They made no flash, but a good bump and a column of water. But even before that the cruiser had waked upprobably saw the wakes of one of the torpedoes-anyway she speeded up to twenty-five knots and her searchlight came on and she waved it wildly around in the air, probably looking for torpedo planes."

"Our torpedoes were all gone in the 41 boat," said Bulkeley, "but I turned around and ran astern of the cruiser to draw her fire so Kelly could get in for his second attack. ly declared for a national figure or Then we saw the destroyers, but a catastrophe affecting the whole they wouldn't give chase, although I tried to create the illusion of a lot of boats by firing machine-gun tracers."

"When the cruiser's searchlight came on," said Kelly, "I turned right to cross her wake and came in on her other quarter. She picked me up astern with her lights and began banging away at me with her secondary batteries-50-calibers and 40-millimeter guns - from about twelve hundred yards. The stuff was going right over our heads in a continuous stream of fire. "But I was good and mad because our first torpedoes had missed," said Kelly, "so I decided to chase her. I told one machine-gunner to fire at her searchlight, which was blinding me, and the others to sweep her decks to get her gun crews. "After a few minutes' chase, we had closed in to three hundred yards -so close that her searchlight seemed to be coming right down on us from an angle-about like the sun in mid-afternoon. Then I drew out onto her starboard quarter and fired our last two torpedoes-an overtaking shot. They were the last two our squadron was to fire in the "Then I gave the boat a hard right rudder and started running awayfor we were defenseless now except for our machine guns. But the rain of Jap tracers kept right on, and suddenly another Jap ship showed up fifteen hundred yards away. Both started firing their main batteries at me and we were trapped betweensplashes all around us now, as close ously they were heading toward zigzagging wildly, trying to dodge the two searchlights, and also the stream of fire which were crisscrossing above our heads like wicker basketry, and landing in the water all around us. It seemed like weeks, but was probably only a few seconds. My junior officer, Ensign Richardson, had the wheel, while I was watching the cruiser through middle of her belly-another two seconds, another splash and detonation right in her engine room! Our overtaking shots had both hit home! Her searchlight went from bright yellow to orange to red to dull brick-red and finally winked out. Every gun stopped firing. She was jet-black now.

"But I didn't have much time for philosophizing, because this other destroyer was on my starboard bow, supposed to sook for twenty-four Sis-Inch guns and me with only 50closing in, banging away with her "Kelly got twenty-three salvoes or

'Backyard' Type Of Slaughter is Legal

(Reprinted from Clarksburg Exponent of Tueseday, July 20)

Provisions for legalized slaughterng of "backyard" produced livestock for home consumption were made this week in instructions issued by the New York regional office of the Food Distribution to its supervisors, Paul E. Wright, meat supervisor here, announced today.

The meat committee will make a recommendation to the area supervisor, who in turn will issue the necessary butcher permit. Holders of such permits may perform the slaughter themselves if they have the facilities or hire a custom slaughterer.

Furious Tank Battles Rage in Russia As Nazis Seek to Encircle Red Army; Farm Income Increased by Two Billion; Allied Victories Threaten Jap Bases

RUSSIA:

Blitz Again

Seeking to wipe out the big Russian bulge on the central front, 500,-900 German soldiers continued their attacks at both ends of the bulge, with the objective of encircling the huge Red army from the rear.

At the southern extremity of the bulge near Belgorod, the Reds admitted that the Nazis had scored early gains. According to the Russians, the Germans were backing up their forces with masses of tanks and airplanes. In action was a new tank, bigger than the 60 - ton Mark VI.

From dispatches, the battle assumed the old lines of German blitzkreig. The Nazis concentrated their strength at certain points and then threw their whole weight against them. As their forces streamed through, the Russians moved to pinch off the tanks and infantry and isolate them from the main armies.

Although claiming success, the Germans said that the huge bulge still extended 85 miles to the west.

FARM INCOME: Up by 2 Billion

Bolstered by a 36 per cent increase from marketing, farm income for the first five months of 1943 was up two billion dollars over last year.

Total income amounted to $3,788,-000,000. Of this, $6,412,000,000 was their own leaders following the libgotten from marketing, while $376,-000,000 was obtained in government

The big increase from marketing was attributed to the larger returns from oil-bearing crops, tobacco, poultry and eggs. Substantial gains also were reported for all commodity groups.

The nation's heavy year-round demand for food was reflected in figures which showed that the increase in income from April to May was less than seasonal. Small increases resulted from marketing of vegetables, fruits and nuts and dairy products, among other crops.

Diary of a Broadcaster

The Washington atmosphere affects strangers who tarry long within the shadow of the Washington monument or the Capitol dome. It affects not only the so-called higher species but the citizens of cat-anddogdom as well. Today, I came down town at an odd hour-an interesting hour. I was a little later than usual. The war workers and the boarding-house cats and the ailey pups, which wait until the workers are out of the way, had vanished on their various duties; only an indolent and disreputable Tom still paused to massage its hips against a garbage can, and a yellowish partfox terrier, certainly part, and from his brush, certainly more fox than Now it is up to the people. If terrier, lay in the exact center of the alley where anything that ran down the middle gutter would eventually reach him.

These creatures sniff at protocol and treat it as they do anything else they sniff at. But that hour is also the hour of the pet parade, for the handsome creatures that strain at leashes. The most unhappy person I meet at this bewitching hour is a thin little relic of a butler, who is literally torn between losing his dignity and his grip on one of the embassy great danes.

No men like to walk dogs. All dogs like to walk men. But one gentleman dog nurse dared me to stare him down. He was being led by a stiff-legged aristocrat, a young wired-haired fex, as white and starched as if his proud mamma prepared him for a birthday party. Then there was the sad-eyed cocker, who dropped its eyes, sadder still when it realized I had noted that its mistress was wearing a far too informal house dress for polite street wear.

And then, there was the little oneby-five, it undulated along with a rather forced smile. It was a dachshund and probably anti-Nazi. It was hustling along like a caterpillar in high gear, trotting with its hind legs, and hopping with its little turthe paws in front.

I even met a feline on a leash, a great big tortoiseshell Thomas-it looked as if it was safer that way if it's for the good of the country for the rest of us-all I could think and the boy he spared to join the of was "tiger, tiger, burning bright army. But not if somebody tells in the jungle of the night."

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE Just as appendicitis was formerly the main subject for discussion when health or medicine was mentioned, now the main subject appears to be blood pressure-that is, high blood pressure. In fact, some physicians, in their natural desire to prevent heart or brain strokes in their patients, often take blood-pressure readings every time the patient with high blood pressure consults them. The pa-Dr. Barton tient usually aska the physician as to his blood pressure each time it is taken and if it is a few points higher than at the previous visit he begins to worry about it.

Now it so happens that a blood pressure a few points above or below that of the previous visit does not mean any real change in the condition of the blood vessels, because food, emotional disturbances and other factors enter into the condition of the blood pressure.

In the Boston number, Medical Clinics of North America, Dr. Norman H. Boyer in an article on the treatment of high blood pressure (hypertension) says: "Those who concern themselves chiefly with bloodpressure readings are doomed to frequent disappointment. While reduction of blood pressure is desirable and in some cases can be accomplished, it can be said that there is available today no specific single remedy for the reduction of high blood pressure." Now this statement does not mean that these patients with high blood pressure cannot be helped, as relief of symptoms and postponement of the dire results of high blood pressure brain stroke and heart stroke and congestion of the kidneys can often be accomplished. And because so much can be done for these patients, Dr. Boyer states that undue emphasis should not be placed on blood-pressure

How should high blood pressure be treated?

By trying to find the cause and treating the patient from the standpoint of the cause. The causes of high blood pressure are disturbances in the brain, gland system, kidneys and blood itself.

The treatment is therefore directed toward the correction of abnormal conditions in so far as this is possible-plenty of rest, moderation in eating, avoiding overweight, removal of infections, use of quieting to the food you are putting up. gery (nerve cutting) in extreme

Vegetable Canning Guide

Non-Acid Vegetables

Are you putting up many greens and vegetables from your Victory garden this year? In other years, the first question we asked after that, was, do you have a pressure putting up vegetables which are non - acid. The reason: In most soil there is a deadly germ called Botulinus which attaches itself to vegetables in the non-acid class, to which most of them belong. Mr. Botulinus is hard to destroy except by extreme heat-which the pressure cooker can give as most vegetables are processed at an above-boiling point, 240 degrees Fahrenheit.

Let me go on record as saying use the pressure cooker if you posgibly can. Chances of your being able to buy one are slim, but perhaps there's a neighbor or friend or a local canning center which will give you the means of having one. If it's absolutely impossible to obtain a pressure cooker, do non-acid Prepare jars vegetables by the boiling water bath. It takes much longer to process the vegetables, but don't skimp a minute of it, if you would be

To use the pressure cooker, prepare the product, precook it and pack carefully in sterflized jars. Adjust cap. BIBLE TEACHINGS ON THE COST OF DRINKING

LESSON TEXT — Deuteronomy 21:18-21; Proverbs 23:20, 21; I Corinthians 6:9-11. GOLDEN TEXT—Know ye not that the un-righteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God?—I Corinthians 6:9.

Billions of dollars-how many we cannot say-make up the annual cost of liquor to America in dollars and cents. Terrifying as it is, that stupendous waste is but a drop in the bucket compared with the moral and spiritual degradation, the sorrow and suffering, the poverty and distress. which must be added into our liquor

For it is not only a matter of dollars, but of blood and tears, or destroyed usefulness, lost virtue, wrecked homes, and so on and on and on. We go right on paying the bill, allowing ourselves to be misled by clever propaganda, and skillfully manipulated statistics-or it may be our sheer indifference. When will America awaken!

Our lesson faces us with the cost of this despicable traffic in the life of the individual to the social order, and in the light of eternity.

I. The Personal Cost (Deut. 21: 18-21).

Liquor destroys individuals relentlessly, rapidly, and effectively. Have we forgotten that fact?

The passage in Deuteronomy presents a drastic remedy for a dreadful situation. Drink and gluttony were recognized as the deadly instrument which would bring a boy to the place where he was incorrigible. Stubborn, rebellious, and disobedient, his parents were to bring him to the elders for a final judgment.

If one thinks the penalty too harsh, he must remember that it was established in the early days of Israel when it was necessary for God to use such drastic remedies to stamp out incipient evil.

It must be remembered that in ancient Greece weak children were left out to die, and in Rome a father could at will put to death even a grown up son.

The point of this scripture for us is that a life of debauchery (and it can start with just a glass of wine) cording to table. Pack in sterile leads to the ultimate destruction of jars and process for required time. life. It is far too high a cost to pay 20, 21).

Drunkenness and gluttony lead to poverty and rags. The intemperate man cannot keep up with the high cost of supplying his growing appetite. Even as he tries to satisfy its insatiable demand, it also renders him unfit to earn a living.

So the vicious circle works its way around, and stops not until the drunkard totters off in his rags, unless perchance some loved one or friend takes care of him.

Do we not all recall how families in our own communities have been ruined and become charges upon the county or charitable organizations because of the destruction wrought by a father who was a winebibber.

Not only does it bring poverty upon families, but it reduces able and gifted men to shambling wrecks and thus deprives society of the benefit of their lives and service.

A present-day illustration is the unsolved problem of absenteeism for days after pay day in our essential industries. Again we say the cost ing will get rid of bacteria which is altogether too high; let us get rid of this monster before it destroys us!

III. The Eternal Cost (I Cor. 6:

Money lost is serious. Life lost is far more serious. But the saddest cost of all is the eternal damnation of the drinker's soul.

We quote from Dr. Horace Martin these stirring and meaningful words: "It is my calm judgment that any man who names the name of Christ should take an attitude of horror and disgust at the liquor traffic and the use of liquor as a beverage. There are at least three places in the New Testament where the Bible says that no drunkard shall inherit the kingdom of God.

"If any man takes that statement seriously he must think twice before he refers to the use of liquor in a joking manner, or in any way condones the use of alcohol as a beverage" (Lesson Commentary).

Drunkenness is a foul and sinful thing, classed by the apostle Paul with the lowest of human vices. Review the list as it is given in verses # and 10 (and by the way notice the other sins mentioned there), and place drunkenness in its proper classification.

Call It what it really is-ain, and then call on the Coe who can save from sin. You will then be washed from your sin, sanctified, and justifield in the name of the Lord Jesus (v. 11). In Christ there is hope for the drunkard. A spiritual revival is the real answer to the liquor probhim. Lot us suck to promote it even as we at the same time give oursolves to an infulligent and construclive battle against this destructive Notice in the life of our nation.

"HEAR THE DIFFERENCE"

"It wasn't difficult,

> Isimply followed directions and got Results!"

Following directions is one of the simple things in connection with the "Health (food) for Victory" program this year. Gardens are beginning to yield much more, in many localities, than was dreamed of a few weeks ago and the pleasant task of canning, saving for fall and winter use, is here. It is impossible, of course, in such small space to say much about the general job of food processing, but here we give you, for their helpfulness, eight of the most common causes of canning spoilage. Keep them in mind!

THESE CAUSE SPOILAGE

Stale, unsound or ever-ripe food that contains large numbers of micro-organisms.

Insufficient cleanliness in preparing containers and food.

Slow canning, sometimes due to attempting to handle too much at one time.

Packing jars too tight, or using too little liquid.

Cooling too slowly after processing. Some spailage is directly due to foods remaining around 110 to 115 degrees F before or after processing.

Storing in a warm place.

Poor or ill-fitting fids, jars, or rubbers,

Failure to follow directions exactly. (Every box of jars you buy has instructions about sterilizing, filling, etc.) And finally, do not use canning "powders" to prevent spoiling. Some of these are definitely harmful, Our Home Economists Will Be Glad to Give You

More Complete Information.

THE STORY SO FAR: The story of their part in the battle for the Philippines is being told by four of the five naval officers who are all that is left of Motor Torpedo Boat Squadron 3. They are Lieut, John Bulkeley (now Lieutenant Commander), squadron commander; Lieut. R. B. Kelly, second-in-command; and Ensigns Anthony Akers and George E. Cox Jr. After taking General Mac-Arthur and his party safely to Cebu, in the southern islands, Squadron 3 prepared to participate in a "great offensive" planned against the Japs. But our planes and ships that were supposed to come didn't appear, and Lieut. Kelly's boat and the one Lieut, Bulkeley was riding in were forced into hiding.

CHAPTER XIII

"They didn't get us then," said Kelly. "At midnight our escape began. The destroyer lost me with its light temporarily, so I did a ninety-degree turn so as to pass astern of her and lose her. I continued on that course five minutes, heading directly away from her, then to the left in another ninetydegree turn, and I started looking around the ship. "I found Reynolds, my port gunner (he was also cook), had been shot through the throat and shoulder. I got him down below and had the chief torpedoman and the radioman give him first aid.

"I found our mast had been shot off a foot over my head, so we couldn't use our radio for sending. The port turret had been hit and its guns were out of action.

"Our objective now was to get Reynolds to a doctor. We were going like a bat out of hell. I couldn't see the 41 boat-it was so dark I couldn't even see the shore. I just had to look at the compass and make mental estimates as to how far we had gone in various directions since I last had seen land I recognized, and then guess where we now were. I thought we were near the narrow channel between the islands; would another Jap destroyer be laying for me there?

"Suddenly, directly ahead, a searchlight came on, less than a mile away-a Jap steaming full speed at me. I barely had time to give a hard left and a hard right and we went scooting past each oth-er at a relative speed of sixty knots before he had a chance to fire a shot. He turned, holding me down with his light like a bug under a pin, and started chasing, blazing away with big guns-two splashes four hundred feet away, two more fifty feet away. I started zigging to squirm out of that lightwouldn't let my gunners fire a shot; it would help him keep our position. was getting away, all right, but he kept firing for ten minutes, although his accuracy was going to hell. By 1:30 I could barely see his light, which was waving around, searching the water back of us.

"I kept on, wide-open, wondering how we'd ever get in, since we had no charts, it was black as pitch, and I knew coral reefs must be all around us. At four o'clock I slowed down and headed into where I hoped the beach was, taking soundings. The water suddenly shoaled off and bump! we were aground-a pinnacle of coral under her belly. Looking down with flashlights we could see the water was twenty feet deep with coral pinnacles all around us about every twenty feet, like a petrifled forest, rising to within five feet of the surface.

"Studying the shore line, I realtzed we were about ten miles too far up the coast. I sent Ensign Richardson ashore in a rowboat to send an army doctor and ambulance out from Cebu for Reynolds, and also a tug for us.

"For the next hour we sallied shiprocking it, trying to jiggle it off the pinnacle, backing with the engines -and finally managed to roll it off.

"Reynolds was feeling fine now. I'd suddenly remembered a little present Peggy had given me on the Rock, went down to my locker and brought it up for him-a couple of codein tablets and a sedative pill. Now he was sitting topside smoking, although he couldn't drink because the water would leak out the hole in his throat. Then we went der what in hell had become of our big American offensive and the air umbrella, because I had to throttle back, stopping the boat momentarily so that the next bomb would land twenty-five feet in front instead of squarely on us. Then I gave her the gun and started trying to zigzag in that narrow four-hundred-footwide channel, meanwhile giving word to our machine guns to start

"They bombed us for thirty minutes, and the farthest bomb was thirty feet away. We would wait for the bomb release, see it start falling, then I'd give hard rudder and it would miss by a few feet. All the while we had to keep in this narrow channel so we couldn't be beached helplessly on a coral reef, and work our way down it toward port, where presently some of the newly arrived American planes would see what was going on and come to help. We didn't doubt, of course, that they'd arrived. Four Jap seaplanes were after us, working in rotation-undoubtedly those from the second cruiser the army had reported as being around.

"When their bombs were exhausted they began diving down just over our mast stub to strafe us. With their first salvo they killed Harris, He was my torpedoman and also manning the starboard 50-caliber machine guns-a fine kid he washe slumped down from his guns and rolled on the deck when a bullet ripped into his throat. "But meanwhile Ross, with the starboard 30-caliber machine guns, had shot down one of the four planes. The next plane got Ross in the leg, and also put out his gun. So we now had no guns, only two engines and a boat full of holes with three planes diving down to less than one hundred feet, raking us with fire which we couldn't returnonly try to dodge.

"The engineer now reported the engine room was full of water and the boat was sinking, so there was nothing to do but beach her, if we were to save the wounded men. I headed her over towards nearby Kawit Island, and there she beached hard and fast. There were about her just once again? twelve hundred yards of shallow surf, four feet of water over an un-back for a last trip. Only Harris was left, lying where he had tumbled into the tank compartment. But the radioman and I carried his body ashore, because we hoped to give him a decent burial.

After reaching shore at Cebu Is-land, Lieutenant Kelly turned his attention to his casualties.

"I rounded up some native soldiers, who got stretchers, and in these we carried the wounded to the other side of the island where they could be loaded into a launch, putting them in charge of Sheppard, a first-class machinist's mate, to get them to the hospital.

"At this point a banca showed up, and it was a native doctor, the one we had sent Ensign Richardson ashore for, before dawn, for Reynolds, who by now was en route to the hospital. So I loaded the ship's papers, binoculars, and stuff into this banca, and with them I shoved off for Cebu.

"Halfway over the three planes came back and we tried to hide behind a fish trap-a net with bamboo poles sticking up out of the water. But they weren't strafing now. They were looking for the fourth plane we'd shot down. They scoured the area for twenty minutes. After they left we went on in, and of course I went straight to army headquarters, and met the colonel in charge-the No. 2 officer of the island. No, he hadn't heard from Bulkeley, but he'd send out a radio message to hunt for him if he was still alive. And maybe I'd better give my report direct to the general. I wanted to, and also I wanted to find out what had happened to our big American Offensive we had been asked to be part of, and that air umbrella which should have protected us this morning.

"The general had been having a conference at the bar of the American Club, sitting with some other officers and some civilians who were now all having a drink. Now a general is pretty important, and you don't just go barging into his conferences-not if you're a mere naval lieutenant in command of a little seventy-foot boat. So, following the lead of this conducting colonel, we stood off a bit and waited until the general gave us the signal to come on in and tie up at his table. He saw us all right, but he didn't give us the signal-just went on talking to the other officers and civil-

"Now, thinking back, I realize it was a most important conference. But at the time I was excited, because I had just come from my boat in which I'd fought all through the war and with which we'd just helped to sink a Jap cruiser-my boat which was now lying beached across the bay, with one man dead, another dying, and all the rest but three wounded. I suppose I was unstrung. I wanted to have him make my report by radio about the cruiser. And then, although maybe it wasn't my business, I'd have liked to find out about that American offensive he'd invited us to join the night before.

"We kept standing there, the two of us, while I got madder and madder. I see now it was unreasonable, but I couldn't help it then. Finally it embarrassed even the colonel and he invited me to step over by the bar and have a drink with him. I said no, thanks, I had work to do, but I'd have a Coca Cola. I stuck around ten more minutes drinking it and then, since the general gave us no signal, I shoved

"I arranged to have the boat guarded. Because I wouldn't yet admit that maybe both it and we were expended now. High tide was at four o'clock. Couldn't we maybe patch her up, float her over to 'Dad' Cleland's, get torpedes and a crew from somewhere, and maybe fight

"I went over there to where Brantingham and the 35 boat were, taking even bottom of coral and sand, and | the stuff I'd salvaged from the boat, then the palms. The planes kept up and they gave me some lunch as I their strafing as we lay there, but | talked about the fight and what had there was nothing to do now but happened to us, and during it Endodge while we got the wounded sign Richardson telephoned. He said Reynolds had died, and they were burying him and Harris in the American cemetery with a military escort and a priest, at four o'clock. I said of course I would go, and tered his elbow and gone out a three | would meet Richardson at the bar inch hole in his forearm, but he was of the American Club, from which

"I got there but Richardson didn't show up. I stood around, I was tired and mad and lonesome as hell. Finally a civilian came up-and I got to talking to him. He was a very nice guy-vice president of the club. I told him our story and he said how sorry he was, and asked if he might go to the funeral. He was the first sympathetic person I'd

"Presently a truck arrived, drivso by a Filipino soldier with a message for me that the Ameral had been postponed until ten o'clock tomorrow. This American found out t knew nobody in Cebu, hadn't slept, and had no place to go, so he invited me out to his house for dianer and the night. Before I went, I located our three men who were precented. I gave them fifty peace and told them to go ashore and get drunk and furget the whole messFor you to make

Cautions for Home Canners

Housewives doing home canning with wartime jar caps are cautioned to follow implicitly the instructions of the cap manufacturers if they wish to avoid unhappy experiences and waste in their patriotic effort to conserve. Spoilage of food and breakage of jars is certain to result, if instructions are not followed to the letter. Proper methods and careful canwill insure excellent results. more important in the present food

The Glass-Top Seal Fruit Jar Cap,

This cap consists of a metal band, glass lid and rubber ring. With these three widely varied materials making up its component parts, the cap must be used according to important but easily followed instructions. First of all, the cap is not recommended for, and must not be used in, oven canning.

The next step is to place the rubber around the projection on the bottom side of the lid, and the lid must then be placed so that the rubber lies between it and the top edge of the jar. All jars on which top-seal closures, either glass or metal, are used must have smooth-top edges.

The band is then applied tightly and immediately loosened slightly about one-quarter of a turn. Bands must fit loosely during the processing or cooking. If an open kettle is used, the bands are to be screwed tight as soon as the jar is filled. After the processing is completed the bands are screwed tight to complete the sail. The bands may be removed seal. The bands may be removed twelve hours after the canning operation. At no time should the filled jars be turned up-side-down.

The housewife who takes no chances on variance from any one of these simple but important steps is assured of success and the enjoyment of the delicious flavor of home canned foods this winter.—Adv.

NOTICE

TO HOME CANNERS

The Glass Top Seal Fruit Jar Cap for Home Canning was developed as a Wartime product to conserve metal. It consists of a Metal Band, Glass Lid and Rubber Ring.

Because of the difference in the nature of these three materials this Cap must be used differently from any other fruit jar cap. If used properly it will give excellent results. If not used properly, results will be bad, including failure to seal and breakage of jars. Following are simple instructions for use of the Glass Top Seal Cap and must be followed carefully.

- 1. Do NOT use in Oven Canning.
- 2. If processing, (cooking in jar), leave 1 inch space in top of jar. If using open kettle, leave 1/2 inch space in top of jar.
- 3. Fit rubber around projection on bottom side of lid.
- 4. Place lid so rubber lies between lld and top edge of jar.
- 5. Turn bands tight, then loosen slightly (about % turn). Bands must fit loosely during processing (cooking). This is Important and must be done to insure best results. If using Open Kettle, screw bands tight as soon as jar is filled.
- 6. After processing, screw bands tight to complete seal. Remove bands 12 hours after canning.

BALL BROTHERS COMPANY

A Vital Message To All Shoe Buyers

FROM THE

International Shoe Company

BECAUSE there has been considerable misunderstanding regarding the quality of shoes now available to civilians, it is important that you become acquainted with the facts.

Perhaps this message from America's largest manufacturer of shoes will be helpful to you.

At present, our Government has first call on shoe materials. Millions of pairs of shoes are being manufactured annually for our armed forces. These shoes are built according to rigid government standards. Only the best materials and skilled workmanship are suitable. Neither you nor we would have it otherwise. Victory demands it.

But-does that mean good shoes-dependable shoes -are not to be had by civilians?

Not at all-you can still buy good shoes. The honor and integrity of the International Shoe Company stand behind that statement.

We, as well as other shoe manufacturers, could make more shoes were we willing to disregard quality—but quality is the essence of this message—and this company is determined not to use present conditions as an excuse for lowering the moral standards of its product-standards maintained for more than forty years.

Despite heavy demand from our armed forces, there is still a sufficient quantity of good, serviceable shoe material available to meet essential civilian requirements. We assure you that we will continue to manufacture shoes that will return full value for your dollar-and satisfactory shoe mileage.

You may continue to have confidence in the shoes made for men, women, and children by this company. We shall keep faith with the wearers of our shoes.

Gas for Farmers

Predicting a tightening of the supply of crude oil in the West, the Petroleum Administration for War book steps to provide sufficient gasoline for farmers throughout the country by giving them first call on available stocks.

According to WAP, farmers are saing about 100,000 barrels of motue fuel daily, 90 per cent of which is being consumed outside of the East. About 70,000 barrels are required in the Middlewest.

FDR Restores Order

Hereafter, if any administrative heads in Washington are in conflict over fact or policy, they must resolve their differences quietly or else turn in their resignations. That, in short, was the ultimatum President Roosevelt laid down after Henry Wallace had charged Jesse Jones with interfering with the operations of the Board of Economic Warfare, which Wallace headed.

The President solved the Wallace Jones fracas by abolishing the BEW and establishing the Office of Economic Warfare and then appointing as its director Leo T. Crowley, alien property custodian and chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation.

The action relieved both Wallace and Jones of direction in the government's purchase of foreign materials. Previously, the two agencies had shared in the program, with the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which Jones heads, supplying the funds for the buying. OPA:

Declaring the best thing that could happen to the Office of Price Administration would be a reduction of 50 per cent in its staff of 2,700 attorneys, Lou R. Maxon, deputy administrator of OPA, turned in his resignation.

Maxon's withdrawal came at a time when he was being prominently mentioned as a general manager for the OPA, a job later given to Chester Bowles, a New York advertising executive. He complained of the government's failure to establish a definite food program, charging that instead of working out a set policy, the administration was meeting each crisis with a makeshift compromise, thus creating the Guinea lay in peril of capture by ministrator Brown replied that OPA basis of another crisis. Food Will Win the War' -And Maybe an Election

Washington Politicians Awaken to Fact That Voting Public, Like an Army, 'Moves on Its Stomach.'

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator,

WNU Service, Union Trust Building Washington, D. C.

Wars and rumors of war, war production, man power, post-war plans, race riots, roll-backs, gas rationing, strikes, floods, offensives-you can think of a lot more probably. All right, pour them all into the hopper. Grind them up. This is a pretty dish to set before a voter in 1944! Don't worry, he can take it. But take away his bread-basket, and he is a different animal.

Food will win the war. Lack of it can postpone victory if it doesn't spell defeat.

And food, or lack of it, can lose an election, that is what you are hearing in Washington these days.

An electorate, like an army, moves on its stomach. On an empty stomach, it moves away from the "ins," hollers for the "outs" to bring back the bacon. And when you get a customer with both an empty stomach and a full pocketbook hammering on the table and demanding service, you have a hard customer to please.

Slowly, the Washington politicians are beginning to awaken to that fact -that food is going to be the big issue in the next election.

President Saw It First

The President and his keen-eyed, ears-to-the-ground political · scouts recognized it first, and when Phil Murray, head of the CIO, and William Green of the AFL began to call for the roll-back of prices, the administration was quick to promise that they would be served "right away." Meanwhile, some of the other guests are beginning to feel neg-

But before roll-backs au gratin could be served, congress stuck its foot out and tried to spill the tray. For a while, it looked as if there was going to be embarrassment in the political kitchen.

Even if the administration is able to silence the demands and threats of labor, there are a lot of other Oliver Twists who "want some

Through the days when congress was first trying to fold its tent and steal away from the banks of the Potomac, one thing was clear: unless the administration pulled a the hat which could be served up to the electorate with enough basketsfull left over for the fighting forces and the hungry Allies and other prospective clients, the Gallup poll vaulters which had re-re-reelected the New Deal in advance would have to start their polling all over again.

The enemies of the administration are building up a barrage to the effect that Mr. Roosevelt has babied labor and has left his old friends, the farmers, in the lurch. They say that because he was afraid to offend labor, he listened to their demands for lower prices and turned a deaf ear to the farmers' troubles.

This, of course, since it comes from hardly non-partisan quarters, has to be taken with a grain of salt, but whatever the working man says, when he sees the cost of living eating up his former "raises" if he has had them, the record will show that despite John Lewis' polysyllabic attacks on the President, labor has not been treated exactly as a step-

But what has the farmer been getting meanwhile? A couple of assists, at least, which have benefited him and the war effort at the same time.

FCA Head Reports

Let me report to you what I learned from Governor Black of the Farm Credit administration, an institution which has managed to escape the attacks which most of the government agencies have had to weather, Governor Black was in Washington the other day—the headquarters of the Farm Credit admin-Istration were moved to Kansas City a year ago, you know, in the interest of decentralization and with the idea that after all, Kansaa is nearer

The governor tells me that the FCA has been used heavily since the first of the year to see that farmers are getting the credit they need to achieve all-out production. He admits that the 50 million dollars loaned to farmers and stockmen isn't much compared with the total amount of production financing which the farmers use in a year but it's something even in these days of astronomical lending, leasing and

The loans are made through the Regional Agricultural Credit corpo-

Here are just a few of the facts Black produced from his briefcase. Take flax-flax is as important in its way as tanks are in theirs. The automobile manufacturers have had it made worth their while to manufacture tanks instead of autos. The farmers up in-take North Dakota, for instance-have "shared the risk" as Black puts it, with the RACC (Regional Agricultural Credit corporation) which extended them credit to "change over" to flax. Instead of one million three hundred thousand acres of this valuable crop that was harvested last year, a million EIGHT hundred and forty thousand per cent government financed). Take dry beans in Montana: 50,-000 acres seeded this year, double last year's planting, 84.5 per cent of the crop government financed. I could go down the list with peanuts in South Carolina, sweet potatoes in Louisiana and Mississippi, ad infini-

Simple Machinery

The way this share-the-risk thing works is simple. The farmer puts up his land and labor, the RACC puts up the out-of-pocket costs after the county war board and its own representatives have approved the

If the crop comes out all right, the farmer pays the loan. If it is wiped out by bugs, drouth or disaster (and when Ol' Man River went more" and who will twist out of hog-wild this spring, there was a lot their straight-ticket voting and start of wiping out) his liability isn't looking for "a better 'ole" unless wiped out, too, because his liability this food question is solved before the ides of November MCMXLIV. the crop and the incentive payments or insurance on it.

"It wasn't so much a matter of how much money was loaned," Governor Black said to me, "as where it was loaned and what it was loaned nice, fat and succulent rabbit out of for. In the past few months, the country has awakened to the necessity of producing the vital crops to the limit, and that's where we concentrated our financing."

Well, that is one agency that has been able to go ahead without having to duck the political brickbats.

Other government agencies, not so lucky, had to take a lot of punishment that wouldn't have been directed at them if it weren't for politics. The poor Commodity Credit corporation, which everybody seems to love for itself alone, got into an unpleasant jam with the subsidies, and had a tight squeeze partly through pure politics, partly because congress and the President didn't see eye-to-eye on the anti-inflation program.

What most people fall to realize is this: even now with all the splendid effort the farmers have made, agriculture has not yet been entirely "converted"-I don't mean converted to the "all-out" idea but converted in the sense that civilian industry was converted to war productionautos to tanks and planes, sewing machines to machine guns, Industry had plenty of "incentive." The farmers have had some help, will have more.

And the consumer (who is really everybody) and the farmer and the worker, haven't gotten it through their heads yet that unless they all hang together, they'll hang separately.

If we don't get the food, we won't be able to eat the dollars, no matter how many we may have in our

The per capita use of eggs in 1942 was 316. Prospects for this year are about 324 per capita. The army the center of American agriculture out of every 10 produced, which leaves ? out of every 10 for civilians.

IS SACRED TRUST
WE SEND MEN to Washington as senators and representatives to constitute the legislative branch of the federal government. It is their province to think of and act for the welfare of the nation as a whole. Should we select them for the purpose and with the expectation of their securing special advantages for the people of their states or their districts without regard for and consideration of the interests of the nation as a whole, we would not be worthy citizens of the republic. We would not be entitled to that freedom our form of government pro-

It happens all too frequently that those selected as candidates for these responsible places in our government are picked because of what we believe they can, or what they promise to, secure for us. They propose to get their fingers into the government purse and dig out money for our special benefit. They propose to find jobs for those who are neither qualified or worthy. They propose to secure the location of government institutions within the state or district that would be better if located elsewhere.

It is seldom that men nominated and elected for such reasons have any definite influence in the shaping of national legislation, and it is well they do not. The republic survives and functions despite them rather than because of them.

The republic must stand or fall on the action of the legislative branch of government. Should that branch for any appreciable time fail to be dominated by men of broad vision and ability the republic will die. That will be especially true throughout the next few years during which we must pass through a period of national and world readjustments. To surmount the difficulties that will confront us, statesmanship of a high and practical character will be needed. If we are to deserve the blessings the republic has provided, and may continue to provide, we will select our candidates on the basis of their ability as practical statesmen rather than ability as party workers, the indebtedness of the party to them, or their promises to bring home the bacon for their state or district. It is not too early to be considering qualifications.

Lesson for August 1

GOD DELIVERS HIS PEOPLE

LESSON TEXT-Exodus 5:23, 23; 6:1-7; GOLDEN TEXT—Call upon me in the day of trouble: I will deliver thee, and thou shall glorify me.—Psalm 50:15.

Why doesn't God do something? People are quick to ask such a question in a time of crisis. Today they want to know why God permits the war to go on. In the day of our lesson Moses wanted to know why God did not deliver His people from Egypt. He and Aaron had been appointed of God to lead them out, but their first efforts only met with failure and increased persecution.

The complaint of Moses, and the response of God make an instructive story for our consideration and guidance. It will answer our ques-

I. Moses Said, "Thou Hast Not Delivered Thy People" (Exod. 5:22,

When the efforts of Moses brought heavier burdens on the people they blamed him and Aaron for making their situation worse. This sorrow and shame made them doubt God's calling and commission. How quickly men are discouraged in their purpose to serve God.

The people were wrong in their attitude. They should have been patient. They ought not to have assumed that the loss of the first skirmish meant the loss of the whole campaign.

Are we not just like them? The new minister or the recently elected Sunday school superintendent makes a mistake and instead of helping him to pick up the pieces and start over, we decide that he just will not do, that we must have a change,

Even though the people were wrong, however, the man of God should not have lost his faith and accused God of failure to keep His promise. He was supposed to have learned the lesson of patience in the long years on the backside of the desert. Had he forgotten the experience of the burning bush?

II. God Said, "I Am Jehovah, Thou Shalt See What I will Do" (Exod. 6:1-7).

In other words, Moses was to remember that he was dealing with the Eternal One, unchangeable, and always true to His word and able to make His will come to pass.

So often men in dealing with God think of Him in terms of their own weakness and failure. What we need is to have a Godlike conception of God, not a manlike idea of Him. God is the infinite and Eternal One with whom we have no right to quarrel, and whose dealings with us are too high for us to judge (Ps. 139:1-6).

God's covenant with His people was established (v. 4). He had heard their cry (v. 5) and His deliverance was sure (v. 6). The only thing Moses had to do was to wait and see God work.

That word "wait" is a little one. It seems to call for no effort, to be easy of fulfillment; yet it seems to be the hardest thing for a human being to do. Men who carry the burden of active warfare with ease and with honor become discouraged and sick when they must sit in a prisoner's concentration camp and wait for deliverance.

From an old French word "mes" derived from the Latin word "missus" meaning a course at a meal, comes the Army's name "mess" for its breakfast, dinner and supper. A carton of Camels, by the way, is a gift that's always welcome. And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. THE STORY SO FAR: The story of their part in the battle for the Philippines is being told by four of the five naval officers who are all that is left of Motor Torpedo Boat Squadron 3. They are Lieut. John Bulkeley (now Lieutenant Commander), squadron commander; Lleut, R. B. Kelly, second-in-command; and Ensigns Anthony Akers and George E. Cox Jr. Returning from what turned out to be their last raid against the Japs in the Philippines, the PT boats were bombed and strafed by Jap dive bombers. The men scattered, and Lieut. Kelly, separated from the others, accepted an invitation to stay at the home of a friendly American at Cebu. The just like the others." Jap attack on Cebu had already begun,

CHAPTER XIV

"Then I went out to this sympathetic American stranger's home, which was on the outskirts on a hill overloking Cebu City and harbor. I went right to bed after supper, but first I turned on the radio by my bed. It said that Bataan had just fallen. Maybe if they could have ! been told that those seven fat interisland steamers were on their way loaded with food and quinine, maybe those poor brave, starved, feverridden guys could have held the line a little longer. Well, we in the torpedo boats had done what we could. And I wished that Peggy could know that, and that I could thank her for those two codeine tablets, and tell her how they let Reynolds sit out on the deck and really enjoy his last cigarette. "It was a hell of an explosion which woke me up in the dark, and for a minute I didn't know where I was. Through my window which overlooked the town and the harbor beyond, I could see a fire rising on the outskirts. I looked at my wrist watch. It was 4:25. They were all awake in the house now. Then came an even bigger explosion and a flame ten times as high. My American host came back from the telephone and said that one was the Philippine Refinery; the Japanese were coming and the Americans were blowing up the town. I hustled into my clothes to get back into the city. I wanted to rejoin my three men, but I was stopped on the road by the army-no traffic, everybody must get out. It was 5:30, and by now one-third of the city was in flames.

"People were streaming outsome Americans, and a few of our navy. From them during the morning I heard that the Japs had come back and bombed what was left of our 34 boat on the beach. Well, that was over.

"Then I heard that Bulkeley wasn't dead-his boat escaped and was now in Mindanao. That Brantingham had burned his 35 boat sitting there on 'Dad' Cleland's marine railway-at least the Japs wouldn't get it. That Ensign Richardson had assembled what was left of our men, and joined up with our naval forces on Mactan Island, where they would all try to escape to the island of Leyte. It was the last I ever heard of them.

"The Japs had already landed twenty miles down the coast of Cebu -also at two other points.

"'Well, what can I do?' I asked the army.

"'Nothing,' they said. 'Maybe you'd like to join the other evacuees who are assembling at Camp X'an army stronghold inland which was going to hold out all through the war until help came from the States.

"I couldn't make up my mind, so I waited at this American's house for something better to turn up, and meanwhile watched the Japs invasion from the second-story windows.

"The invasion of Cebu was on a penny-ante scale-we could have stopped them if we'd had anything at all," said Lieutenant Kelly. "They had a destroyer, two transports, and a couple of interisland steamers not a hundred feet long. This gang lay off the channel entrance for a while, and presently they loaded about a thousand infantry into the two steamers (five hundred in each), which set out in column through the channel. The leading boat had a little 3-inch gun on its bow, and every now and then it would bang away toward the city.

"I watched them tie up at about ten o'clock in the morning at the only remaining dock and disembark. Meanwhile the three seaplanes (yes, the same ones) were flying over the city, dropping leaflets in English telling the Philippines to surrender, 'We are your friend,' and offering a substantial reward for any American, dead or alive, and a handsome reward for any American Officer or his body. Nice guys. Maanwhile two Zero fighters were strafing the automobiles trying to get out on the road.

"Then we got reports on the progress of the street fighting, which we sould slso hear from the house, The general had apparently pulled out

I looked at my mapit was the standard map the army used for operations, put out by the Standard Oil Company with all their filling stations marked—and saw that a good road led directly from Toledo to Camp X. So I asked the army why the Japs wouldn't use it. " 'Oh, we're going to blow that up,

"But the whole Camp X plan looked

"So I started off by myself for the other coast, hoping I could get out to some other island where the Japs hadn't come yet. I joined up with some civilians who were going the same way-they were plantation owners and could speak the dialect. It was a forty-two-mile hike over steep trails which crossed five mounof corned beef, and at night would sleep in native huts with pigs and chickens under us and flies over us, and we would get the natives to cook us rice and corn, and buy chickens didn't understand the local situawhich they would roast for us. We used banana leaves for plates, and pieces of bark for forks.

"The second day we heard planes at dawn and all scrambled back out of sight in the hut-peering up through the palms. It was three bombers in formation about fifteen hundred feet.

"Somebody said, pointing, 'Why, look-they're ours!' But I could hardly believe it-even when I saw the stars on their wings, even when ers we had seen since before the start of the war. Then we heard some more planes-looked up, and again they were American, a new type with a split tail I'd never seen before but which I learned later were B-25's, and now I realized that here was our big American offensive-the one which we thought had pooped out on us the morning after we sunk the cruiser. Here it was at last-three days too late! Because in the meantime Bataan had fallen, and Cebu. "Because we little guys-the ones who are expended-never get to see the broad picture of the war, never find out the reasons back of the moves or failures to move. We only see our part-look up through the palm trees at the seamy side of it, so when something poops out, and help doesn't come, and everything goes to hell, we can only hope help didn't come in time for some sensible reason like bad weather conditions in Australia. We hope, but at the time we can't be sure, and we get mad.

"That afternoon we bumped into a bunch of troops; they had come from Camp X. It seemed that at three o'clock in the morning a sentry heard a noise, called out 'Halt!' and was answered by Jap tank fire. Somebody hadn't gotten around to blowing up that road from Toledo. So now impregnable Camp X was no more, all American forces on the island were routed, and everything was going to pot.

In those days in the jungle port came in that the Japs had land- I learned more about how nice the simple Filipino people are than I'd learned in months in Manila; I also learned the more Americanized they are, the lousier they are.

"Leaving this village, we kept on down the road to an even tinier one on the coast-still looking for boats. We found a military headquarters and a Filipino third lieutenant-just a kid-in command of twenty native troops, no machine guns and almost no ammunition. Ten miles of hard-surfaced road connected it with a town where the Japs had landed. He said a Jap tank had come up the road the first day but had turned around and gone back. Why hadn't he blown up the bridges? No dynamite. What was he going to do if the Jap tanks came again? What could he do, he asked, but evacutain ranges. We carried a few cans ate? I noticed they had all their gear packed into a bus, and that under their uniforms they wore their civilian clothing. And I couldn't blame them. But they helped us comb the place for boats, and we finally located enough bancas to carry us, and shoved off at dusk.

"We arrived at the next island soaking wet but thankful, and glad we were halted on the beach by native volunteer guards with homemade rifles, instead of by the Japs.

"Here I said good-by to the American civilians. They owned sugar and coconut plantations and wanted to get to their families. Then they would try to get them to safety, but where was safety? Or maybe, instead of wandering from island to island, it would be better to wait for the Japs in their homes. They couldn't decide. The whole easy, comfortable American world was cracking up fast in those islands. It wasn't nice to watch.

"Meanwhile I caught a ride in a car to the island's military headquarters where there was a general in command, and told the army lieutenant at the desk that I wanted to get over to the island beyond, provided the Japanese hadn't already taken it-what did he know? "Well, he said, he didn't know for sure, but he didn't think the Japs had taken it. "I asked him when he had last communicated with military headquarters over there. "About a month ago, he said.

"Well, I said, this was urgent-I had to find out quick-wasn't there any way of getting in communication with them?

"Well, he said, he guessed he could pick up the telephone on his desk and call them. But, he explained, I was new around here and tion. It seemed that his general and the general over on the other island didn't get on at all-hadn't liked each other since West Point. 'You fellows may think you're fighting the Japanese,' he said, 'but here we know better. The frontline trenches of the real war are between these two generals.' However, he said, my case made it different, and since I was a naval officer and therefore, so to speak, a neutral, he I heard the faraway rumble of their responsibility to call up headquarbombs dropping on the Japs in Cebu. ters on the other island and ask in my behalf if the Japanese had landed yet. "He rang them up, and then reported that at the other end of the wire they were talking something which wasn't English or Spanish. Maybe it was Tagalog, which he didn't speak himself, but just in case it was Japanese I had probably better find some other way of going to Mindanao.

"How the war between the generals came out I never learned; maybe their finishing it in a Japanese prison camp.

"It took me days to get to Mindanao around through the islands, begging, rides in cars, hiring small boats to cross little island channels. My objective was to join Bulkeley, who, they had said in Cebu, had escaped the destroyer and was in Mindanao. I wanted to make my report of my part of the battle to him as commander of our squadron. General Sharp, who commanded the island, surely could tell me where he was.

"A Chinese mestizo who was doing a smuggling business of luxury articles among the islands finally landed me, for an enormous price in pesos, at a tiny village on Mindanao which had been abandoned by everybody but one old man, who said yes, a torpedo boat had been in there the week before, and with gestures drew a pretty good picture of Bulkeley's black beard. But he said they'd been there only a few hours, and left for he knew not where. Then he asked when the Japs were coming. Because all the villagers had left, because they were afraid they'd be killed, but I didn't think the Japs would kill an old man, did 17

ARTHRITIS

A middle-aged patient was referred by her family physician to a rheumatism or arthritis specialist. The specialist listened to her story as to when the symptoms appeared, the nature and degree of the pain, the different kinds of treatment she had received, and finally was told by the patient that she knew and opened up the get better. The physician then quietly pointed out that the pain in the knee was just a symptom of a general disease in her body, that fixing up or giving relief in one joint would not prevent the disease attacking other joints, tendons and muscles, and that if he were to help to relieve her symptoms, it would be necessary for her to follow a certain diet, take certain medicines, and receive heat and electrical treatment.

What is arthritis? How can the patient or the physician recognize

In Archives of Physical Therapeutics, Dr. Ralph Pemberton, Philadelphia, whose work on arthritis I have mentioned before, stated that arthritis is not just a disease of the joints, but a disease of the whole body and its results just happen to be located in the joints. In fact, many patients afflicted with the disease do not have much pain or inflammation in the joints but have pain where the ends of the muscles you how to give a "lift" to sagare attached to the tendons which move the bones forming the joint. There may be a small amount of swelling in parts of the body near the joints and both hands may be cold and sweaty.

That arthritis is not a joint disease but a general disease is shown by the fact that the symptoms are worse in women at menstruation, pregnancy and the menopause, These patients stand cold poorly."

The underlying cause of arthritis, in the opinion of Dr. Pemberton, is that there is an imbalance (or lack of adjustment with other parts of the body) of the central nervous system and the endocrine or ductless glands (thyroid, pituitary, adrenal, sex, and others). The thought then is that in trying to find the cause of arthritis, the aggravation of the two systemsnervous and gland-in various ways should be remembered. Infection, injury, emotional disturbances, food, cold, and moisture, general fatigue, should all be kept in mind.

Brain Operation For 'Tension' State

There are cases where the pain is not physical, but mental, and these patients suffer untold agony from grief, anxiety, shame and remorse, ungovernable temper and other mental and emotional disturbances. This pain affects their whole routine of life-food, rest, work. If it were not for the sake of their families or loved ones, this mental pain would drive many of them to self destruc-

How can these cases of severe mental pain obtain relief?

For years surgeons have been able to give relief in physical pain by cutting the nerves supplying the sensation in the part affected. In the same manner, surgeons are now, in the severe cases of mental pain, removing part of the brain.

In the Bulletin, New York Academy of Medicine, New York, Drs. W. Freeman and J. W. Watts, New York, state that the removal of this part of the brain-the frontal lobes -is past the experimental stage and definite relief from mental and emotional pain is now possible. These physicians have followed all their 136 patients for a period of six years and give the following conclusions.

1. The operation interrupts the connection between the front lobes of the brain and the thalamus (the part of the brain which feels or records certain emotional sensations) which reduces the emotional reactions of the patient. This loss of painful self-consciousness causes the patient to look outward instead of Intelligence is unharmed but self responsibility is decreased so that these patients may become lazy and lack tact. Other patients retain the proper degree of responsibility toward others.

3. Best results are obtained in "tension" states with obsessions, good results in depressions, and fair results in day dreaming states.

PLANTING OF LATE VICTORY GARDENS URGED BY WLW FARM PROGRAM EDITOR

25 FEET Much food for wartime living on the home front can be obtained by replanting Victory Gardens, or by getting out autumn gardens. So declared Bill Zipf, WLW associate farm program director and editor for "The Three V's - Vegetables, Vitamins and Victory" program presented by the Farm Department of the Nation's Station each Saturday at 6 p. m., EWT.

The layout pictured is for an autumn garden to supply a small family with late vegetables for storing, dehydrating, canning, krautmaking and for eating fresh. With exception of the cabbage, where plants are set, vegetables suggested in the layout should be seeded directly in the garden by early August.

Urge Exercise of Church Influence Upon Leaders

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Blasting the asual dilatory practice of church people who passively wait until undesired political action is taken, then frame futile resolutions of protest, Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam of Boston, speaking at Hotel LaSalle to members of nations boards of The Methedist Church in session here, firmly admonished church people "to exercise their influence at the place where decision is made, and before decision is made."

The Boston bishop, elected to lead "Crusade for a New World Order," which the Council of Bishops had just formally launched, described the coming effort as Methodism's part in a general movement of all churches to play a creative part in post war planning. The goal of the crusade, according to Bishop Oxnam, is to secure a flood of personal let ters to Congressional representatives hown in a huddle over expressing faith in a world organized map to select 100 key on the basis of international collabo-January mass meetings ration. SOUTH PACIFIC: Range to Dutch Indies Ranging 1,200 miles to the west, American heavy bomber formations struck at the Japanese naval base of Surabaya in the Dutch East Indies.

Tumbling down on an oil refinery, docks, warehouses and railway installations, 500 pound bombs caused heavy damage, Gen. Douglas Macsealed off the Axis troops in the Arthur's communique said. The action marked the first air raid on Surabaya since that former Dutch POULTRY: base was pounded by the Japanese early in the war.

The raid on Surabaya was part of intensive Allied activity in the South Pacific area. As American troops worked closer through heavy jungle to the Japanese air base of Munda on New Georgia islands in the Solomons, medium and dive bombers and fighter planes kept up a rain of explosives on the embattled enemy troops guarding that stronghold. In one day alone, American airmen made 250 raids on the Japanese positions.

A total of 76,704 farms with an acreage of 6,484,292 lay idle in the United States when the decennial census was taken in 1940. The number represented 1.3 per cent of all tarms in the country. New England and the Middle Atlantic states showed the greatest percentage of abandonments, with one out of every 20 farms idle. This compared with Iowa's report of one out of every 2,000. Abandoned farms averaged 85 acres against the 174 acres for operating tracts. Depleted soil and crop failures accounted for one-third of the vacancies, and there were many departures for employment in industry.

Almost 57 million acres of land lay idle on producing farms, census figures also showed.

As the services' casualties were announced, word was received of the death of Maj. Gen. William P. Upshur of the marines and Capt. Charles Paddock in the crash of a naval plane near Sitka, Alaska. General Upshur was commanding general of the marines for the department of the Pacific, while Paddock, who had served on General Pershing's staff in the First World war at the age of 18, was world famous from 1920 to 1929.

For many months now, government offices and conference rooms, no matter how they might echo with glowing reports from the home or the battle front, have never been quite free from a ghost. It hovers in the corner and sends chills down every spine-it is the ghost of Old Man Inflation, trying to come back as a sprinter, having set 94 records to the scene of his crimes in the roaring twenties.

The Office of War Information has just issued a warning that this specter may appear in his most frightful form if we are not careful. The Under the second war powers act, fat pay envelope is the inflation danthe Office of Price Administration ger you hear most about. Up 20 Per Cent

As of March 1 of this year, inthose of the previous year were 20 to 24 per cent. In September, 1941, I wrote in these columns: "Money to burn!

"And the burning question is how starts. The chief danger is another equally unpleasant to Old Man Inprairie fire of farm land speculation such as started in Iowa in World War I . . . Today, two years after the present war started, farm land prices are up 1 per cent . . .

Remember, that was written in September, 1941. Well, steps were ever, as we have seen by comparing figures, land prices in some states have now increased considerably. That is natural for much has happened since 1941. In 1942, as the Office of War Information points out, "for the first time in 20 years, the annual average of farm prices reached parity with other prices." Since the outbreak of the war, the average of farm prices has risen more than 90 per cent, and farm income by about 80 per cent while the average prices paid by farmers, including interest and taxes, has increased about 25 per cent.

Farm income was around 19 billion dollars in 1941-it will be about 22 billion for 1943.

That means, of course, that the farmer has money to spend and it is natural that land values would rise to some degree. As I said, they have gone up as high as 24 per cent in some states and less than 6 per cent in only six states. Those figures, says the bureau of agricultural economics "bear watching"! It is also reported that bankers in some parts of the Middle West believe that in some cases, the land values have risen beyond their real worth based on the long-time earning capacity of the land. That, if for the contrast between army life right now some farmers are buy-to repudiate the wage stabilization they are not members of that unprogram, in which wage increases happy group of 85,000 farm owners who met Old Man Inflation before and who lost their property under ing costs have jumped approximate foreclosures in the decade that endby 21 per cent since that time, they ed in 1939. too. We have struggled through minor industrial panics, as we used to call them, but when the farm goes, it means that things are in such a way that there is no stopping until everybody touches bottom.

Campaign Worked in '41

The article which I wrote in 1941 reported a meeting here in Washington of mortgage bankers, insurance people, farm organization representatives and others who were urged by the Farm Credit administration to make normal appraisals of land. Apparently they did a pretty good job. Meanwhile, an educational campaign was started urging the farmer, instead of rushing out and buying land with the first money he got as income increased, to pay off his debts. It was gratifying to see the results. In the next year (1942) the net reduction of mortgages was 360 million dollars as against an average of 120 million reduction over the three preceding years. Of course, there is nothing Old Man Inflation hates worse than seeing debts paid up.

Another thing which has helpedthe present situation is the fact that the farmers who are buying land now usually put up a large initial cash payment. In other words, they are avoiding future debts and that is to stop the conflagration before it another thing, of course, which is flation.

There is nothing to stop the farmer from speculating in land if he wants to, buying on a margin the way the gamblers used to do on the stock exchange. Now such transactions are considerably limited by taken to prevent speculation then law but there is no law to keep a know any better.

'Psychology for The Fighting Man'

I have just been reading a little booklet called "Psychology for the Fighting Man." It is one of those books published primarily for the soldiers, and every soldier able to read, ought to have it. It has 20 chapters, each written by a wellknown psychologist or expert in his line. Any chapter can be read separately and they are all highly interesting. Familiarity with them will make any man a better soldier and a better leader. The chapter on mobs is only one. It tells how and why mobs form, what starts a panic and how to stop one.

But here are a few of the other topics I found exceedingly interest-Psychology and combat

WHEN OUR BOYS

COME MARCHING HOME WHEN JOHN marched away to war, he went to fight for a land he loved-a land that provided for him freedom of action, opportunity to work, to choose his vocation, to strive, to achieve, to accumulate; a land in which he could found a family with the assurance of an opportunity to provide for a wife and children. His America gave him the chance he craved-the same chance it had given his father and his father's father. To prevent the bespoiling of that fair land, John went

When these Johns of ours come home, they will expect to find that land of freedom and opportunity for which they were fighting; a land in which they can work and build, each according to his ability, his initiative and energy; a land in which they can choose their vocation with an unlimited privilege of working at the job they selected.

These Johns will not appreciate being regulated, regimented and told where, at what and under what conditions they can work. They will not relish the necessity of paying tribute to a legalized racketeer before they are privileged to work. They will be surprised should they find a super-government from which the government they knew must take orders. They would not understand a government where the laws were created by edicts instead of by acts of congress. It was such things they fought against. Should they find those conditions existing here, they would feel they had defeated an enemy abroad and lost at

We on the home front must not let down the Johns who are fighting for what they and we have cherished-"a government of the people, by the people and for the people." That is what our Johns will expect to find when they march home from the war after defeating the enemies of freedom, the kind of freedom they have understood.

AND WARTIME STRIKES

IN THE SUMMER OF 1918, when the Huns were pounding at the very gates of Paris, a division of the French army went on a strike. The soldiers mutinied, threw down their tools-their guns-and marched out of the place they had occupied in the battle line. They were not given a few days to decide whether they would stay out or go back. A division of American marines being held in reserve was thrown into the space the striking French soldiers had de-The marines heroically charged the German line and broke it. That started the retreat of the Huns which ended with the surrender on November 11. The striking French division was court-martialed. Men selected by lot from each regiment and company faced firing squads and paid with their lives for the cowardice of that division.

The war in which we are now engaged for the preservation of our freedom is an all-out war. Engaged in it are those employed on two fronts-the battle front and the home front. The home front constitutes the service of supply. The ships, food, planes, tanks and guma which the service of supply is producing are essential to an ultimate victory. Any stoppage in that supply can be as disastrous as the strike of that French division might Nave Seen.

Follow Rules to Make Canning Easy (See Directions Below)

Fruit Canning

It's time now to begin putting up fruits for next winter and fall to help stretch those ration points and to make sure your family is going to get the two fruits a day required by the nutritional yardstick.

Be wise and watch the fruit trees or berry yines or markets-wherever you get your fruit-to see that you get it for your canning at just the ripe stage. Fruits should be firm-fleshed, ripe but not over-ripe and in prime condition. Remember canning does not improve any product; it merely preserves it for later use, so it follows that you get out of the can only what you put into it.

Methods for processing fruit for canning in order of their desirability are hot-water bath, pressure cooker, steam cooker, open-kettle. Although many homemakers prefer the open kettle for the fruits, the degree of spoilage is so high and the vitamin loss so great that it is less desired than processing in the Hot Water Bath.

For a hot water or boiling water bath as it is sometimes called, utilize a large deep vessel. Fit it with a rack of some kind that will hold the jars 1/2 inch from the bottom of the canner. Be sure the vessel is deep enough so that when the jar is immersed in the boiling water, the water comes to within 1 to 2 inches over the top of the jar.

Place jars on the rack, allowing free circulation of air between the jars. The water should be kept boiling during the entire processing period. If it boils down, particularly during some of the lengthy processing times, add sufficient boiling water to keep it at the proper height.

Oven Canning. Many homemakers like to use the oven for canning fruits and tomatoes. This can be successful if the oven you are using is thermostatically controlled and will keep the required temperature of 250 degrees.

The jars should be set on a rack, at least 2 inches apart-starting with a cold oven. The jars should not be allowed to touch the sides of the oven. If a second batch of jars is going in after the first batch. the oven does not have to be cooled.

After the jars are placed on the rack, turn on the switch or light the oven. Start counting processing time as soon as the oven is . Precook fruit 5 to 10 minutes in syrup before packing in jar. Fruit Juices.

Many homemakers who will be unable to put up all the jellies they would like this summer may put up fruit juices and make them into jelly later. Canning fruit juices either for jelly or other uses is a fairly simple matter, and processing is usually done in a hot water bath, at a simmering temperature, 180 degrees F.

Flavor of the fruit juices depends upon the fruit selected. The juice of fully ripened fruit should be used. Partially ripened fruit lacks flavor whereas over-ripe or bruised or decayed fruit will make sterilization more difficult.

Extracting Juice.

The cold process method must not be used if the fruit is extracted for jelly making. It is far better to heat the fruit or berries. Do not add much water, particularly for soft fruits and berries. Simmer at very low heat-do not boll-until the lulces start running.

Strain the fruit juices through a cotton flannel bag, and fill sterile lars to within to inch of the top. Adjust cap, and process in hot water buth for 30 minutes.

Working as quickly as possible will save the flavor of the Juices and make it more desirable for jellymuch ing.

GERMAN-ITALIAN ANTAGONISM With the invasion of Sicily, the question of whether Germany and Italy can pull together as a team now becomes something much more than a subject of amusing wisecracks. United States diplomats and newsmen who lived interned in Italy until May, 1942, recall many an expression of Italian resentment against the Germans.

On the night before the interned Americans left Rome to return to the U. S., a group of newspapermen. including Richard G. Massock of the Associated Press, visited a restaurant called Biblioteca, which had of its walls. It was built in 1700 been a favorite haunt for most of them before the days of internment. The place was packed, largely with Germans, but when the head waiter recognized them, he hustled some diners off, to make room for his old American friends. An Italian at the next table mumbled something about Germans intruding, whereupon AP's Massock spoke up: "We are not German!" 'Excuse me," said the Italian, indicating clearly that to call a man a German is a fighting word.

This prompted another Italian to come to Massock, the first American he had seen for months. With an affectionate embrace, he said: "Please give my kind regards to President Roosevelt!"

However, both the invasion of continent is not the tank but the

Tanks were needed for the campaign in North Africa, and a year ago they were the most important weapon in the arsenal in preparation for the landing of November 8,

But fewer tanks were expended in North Africa than had been expected, and we still have most of those which were sent to that theater. Further, there will be less demand for tanks in Europe than in Africa, because of shorter distances and less mobility. A tank factory closed down in Ohio last week, a fact which normally would have caused great alarm. But it passed almost unnoticed because of the fact that we now have miles of tanks standing in line waiting to be used in whatever theater may require them. Note: Claude Wickard says that tanks are like potatoes. A few months ago everybody clamored for them. Now they are a glut on the market.

NAZI AIR STRENGTH

Air force experts are commenting on the fact that German air activity is stiffer in every theater of the European war. More German planes have been rushed to Italy, are also active on the Russian front, and are more active over the European continent in combating Allied bomb raids than at any previous time in the war.

Experts believe the Germans have put up all their air strength. This is highly significant, for it means they have taken everything they have, leaving no reserves.

Thus every loss inflicted on the Luftwaffe in any of these theaters represents a decline from the minimum required for a defense of the continent. And when you cut a force below its necessary minimum, you are bringing about its downfall.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

A professional cameraman's appraisal of capital figures, as seen under the flash bulb: Cordell Hull, patient; Donald Nelson, harried and hurried; handsome Ed Stettinius, vain as a Hollywood actor; Henry Wallace, philosophically reflecting on "how the news camera distorts life."

@ Enemy broadcasts, intercepted by FCC, declare Washington is pushing an Argentine break with the Axis with "increasing eagerness" to satisfy U. S. "appetite for encamping" on the Falkland Islands-"unjustly" snatched by Britain from Argentina. Thus Berlin tries to drive wedges both between Argentina and U. S., and between U. S. and Britain. . . .

PACIFIC WAR WILL TIGHTEN Operations in the Pacific have met with glorious initial successes, and American forces will push on from one Island to another, in a campaign which will have no permanent pause.

But don't look for a continuation of ene-sided warfare much longer. We made our first landings in places where the Japanese were ton new vocationer washed has not substantial. But as we advance farther, resistance will become store, and the progress slower.

THE STORY SO FAR: The story of their part in the battle for the Philippines is being told by four of the five naval officers who are all that is left of Motor Porpedo Boat Squadren 3. They are Lieut. John Bulkeley (now Lieutenant Commander), squadron commander; Lieut. R. B. Kelly, second-in-command; and Ensigns Anthony Akers and George E. Cox Jr. The battle for the Philipplues was nearly over when the Japs invaded Cebu. Separated from his squadron, Lieut. Kelly had spent the night at the home of an American civilian. When the Japs began their invasion he fought his way back to the dock where Lient. Bulkeley's boat was tied to learn that he had been reported dead.

CHAPTER XV

"After Cebu fell," explained "an army aviator arrivedhe'd left Cebu that morning. He said he'd talked to a Catholic priest who had said burial mass over you and another sailor, killed in an engagement."

"And I was very glad to hear it," said Kelly. "Because then I knew that Harris and Reynolds had gotten decent burial at the American cemetery in Cebu before the Japs arrived. But then I asked, 'Where's Bulkeley?' You see, the last I saw of him he was tearing around the ether side of that Japanese cruiser, trying to draw its fire away from me, so I could get in to polish it off. I thought they'd probably got him. I heard he'd turned up later in Mindanao, but it was just a rumor."

"What actually happened was this," said Bulkeley. "They didn't get me, but three destroyers chased me until dawn, when I pulled away into shallow water, and we tied up under a pier to get some sleep-as I think I said.

"When night came I went on up to Iligan, where I intended to get gas and go on up to Cebu to see what had happened to Kelly, although I was pretty sure he hadn't got out alive. But at Iligan I was met by a radioed order from Wainwright; there were no more torpedoes for the MTB's, so he couldn't let us have any gas. They were needing it all for the planes out to

"So there we were-stuck at Iligan. I went on over to headquarters at Del Monte to report the battle with the cruiser to General Sharp -certain that the end was before us on the island. We'd be fighting here on Mindanao with rifles to the end. But that morning-it was April 13-General Sharp called me in to say he'd just got orders from Melbourne that I was ordered to report to Mac-Arthur immediately on the plane leaving Del Monte that night. For a while I felt rotten.

"Then I figured it another way. L' I could get to Australia, I might Le able to persuade MacArthur to bring out the rest of the squadron. It looked like it was their only chance. 'I'm going to try to get out all your officers and key men,' he had said. 'I'm not going to let you die in a fox hole with a rifle.' I knew he had believed the MTB's had a great future in the war.

"So I sent word to the rest I would get them flown out if possible, and got aboard the bomber that night. As we left the field, the Japs divebembed it and put one motor out, but we got through."

"He left me in charge," said Akers, "and presently General Sharp sent me up to Lake Lanao in the middle of Mindanao Island on a peculiar mission. They were afraid the Japa might land seaplanes on it and I was to set up defenses there. I was to teach the army how to run the machine guns."

"Cox told me Bulkeley had gone home," said Kelly, "and, thinking I was dead, had made him squadron commander. And I didn't know what to do. There I was-no crew, no boat, no job, while they were busy dismantling the 41 boat, to take it up to Lake Lanao and end the war fighting with the Moros. So I decided I'd better get up to Del Monte and report to Sharp so he sould tell Bulkeley I was alive, and send in my report by radio to the fitates on the scrap with the cruiser and what happened to my boat.

"The General was amazed to see ms. 'Bulkeley said you'd been killed in action,' he said. He listened to my report on the hattle. 'T'll send you to Kalesungay,' he said, 'near the sixfield where the planes come is. But I warn you, there's not too south loops of getting out. There's almost so more gas to refuel the alance at this and, so I doubt that thay'll sand any more.' I said I was sure we were getting out-MacArthus had bold flutestay he would do H M M was humanly possible.

and I were in for a showdown. I didn't intend to miss a plane being off herding a bunch of milk cows through a jungle, but I thought there was no use being unreasonable now. After all, fifty carabao was a lot to round up. It would take several days.

"Back at the quarters I found an old navy captain who'd arrived the day before-used to be in charge of the industrial department at Cavite. He listened to my story, and Mac-Arthur's promise, and then said, The way it looks, I don't think I'm getting out.' Then he talked about the thirty years he'd spent in the navy, all of them training so he would be useful in case of war, and you could see it was discouraging for him to end like this-apparently forgotten by the country he had wanted to serve. What had his life been for?

"On the night of April 22 my hopes were down. I was fiddling with the radio and cut in on a news broadcast from the States-a short-wave station in San Francisco. It was the navy news release on our fight with the cruiser!

"I went to bed sick as the silkyvoiced commentator again repeated his account of our victory, when all out here knew we had only expended ourselves in the hope that it might slow down a Japanese victory, and we had failed even in this.

"Next morning the army colonel sent for me. He'd had a plane-less aviator hard at work who had collected thirty-nine of the fifty carabao. Soon the others would be here, so I was to start work today-a trail-blazing expedition to inspect the jungle path up to Lake Lanao. But suppose a plane came while I was away? I didn't even bring it up; it seemed so hopeless now. I went back to my quarters and had just packed to go when the phone rang. I was to report to General Sharp at the landing field at once, and bring everything I had with me.

"It was grim waiting at the airport. The priority list was made up

"I didn't say much. I figured he | in Melbourne and each man had a number. A plane would not hold more than thirty, they knew, but more than a hundred were waiting there. Because perhaps two, maybe even three, planes might come. Or perhaps someone whose name was called would not show up, and your number might be high enough on the list to claim his seat. So they waited-all young technicians, most of them aviators, for this last chance to get out, so they could fight again, General Sharp had told me he had telephoned Cox and Akers that they were on tonight's list; why weren't they here?

"At 10:30 the list was calledthirty names, mine and theirs among them, but only I answered present. So they put an army tank major and an air-corps captain in as substitutes, if they failed to arrive. But at 10:35 here they came on the run, so the captain and the major were turned aside. They were to go on the next plane-if there was a next.

"Just before we got aboard, General Sharp came over to tell me good-by. He is a grand old man, all six feet of him, a commanding person and every inch a soldier, as his father and grandfather were before

"He said this was probably the last plane out, and he wanted me to take a message to MacArthur. "Tell him the end here is drawing near, and if help can't be sent, in a few days Mindanao will fall. Of course, probably he understands this, and maybe nothing can be

"Then he talked about us. 'Everybody left here in the islands should realize,' he said, 'that those who are called to Australia are the ones who will be most useful for the work ahead. Those who leave are the men for the job, regardless of rank and years of service. The rest of us,' he said, 'consider ourselves as being expendable, which is something that may come to any soldier. We are ready for it, and I think they will see that we will meet it squarely when it comes.'

"Then they called my name, we shook hands, and I climbed aboard. Each of us who were leaving unstrapped our 45's and handed them out through the plane's windows to the fellows who were staying behind. They'd be needing them badly and we wouldn't."

"And Peggy?" someone asked.

"There were three scaplanes sent out from Australia to Corregidor at the very last," said Kelly, "which, among other people, were to bring out the nurses. One of them was shot down off Corregidor, but the other two loaded and got back to Lake Lanao, where they gassed up for the big homeward hop while Sharp held the Japs back from the lake. One of these two got safely away; the plane Peggy was in cracked up on the take-off. So now we won't ever know.

"But as our big ferry-command bomber swung wide out over the field after the take-off, you could see the island and then the path of moonlight glistening over the water, just as we used to watch it glisten from the tunnel entrance at Corregidor. And suddenly I remembered the last thing she said to me-her voice was just as clear as if it had been two seconds ago, instead of many weeks, over that signal-corps telephone in the army hut on Bataan, after I had told her this was good-by. 'Well,' she said, 'it's been awfully nice, hasn't it?' And her voice had sounded clear and brave, but seemed to come from far away."

GOD SHOWS HIS PEOPLE THE WAY

LESSON TEXT-Exadus 13:17-22; 15-17-GOLDEN TEXT-The Lord is my strength Exedus 15:2.

The destinies of the nations are in the hands of God. Warriors are mighty in battle, counselors are quick to declare their wisdom, and diplomats are clever in the manipulation of wealth and people. But when they have all exercised to the limit their ingenuity and power they have only succeeded in bringing us "blood, sweat and tears" as the portion of all mankind. Israel was about to be delivered from the bondage of Egypt, and God through His leader Moses was ready to be their guide. Even so He guides every believer in Christ. We may learn three things from this lesson. I. God Has a Plan (Exed. 13:

17-19). There was a direct, easy road along the coast of the Mediterranean up to Canaan, but God with His pillar of cloud and fire did not lead out in that way.

How strange that He should take them by a longer, more difficult way! Not at all. He knew the danger of the easy way. It was there that the warlike Philistines would be lying in ambush. Such immediate conflict would discourage Israel and tempt them to return to the fleshpots of Egypt. So He took them the other way.

Note that God's guidance for them was one of intelligent planning, not just impulse or chance. He knew what to do, and He did it, for their

God has a plan, not only for the nations, but also for individuals, for your life and mine. Let us find His will for us, for it is good, acceptable and perfect (Rom, 12:1, 2).

Note the honoring of the faith of Joseph in God's promise (v. 19). The memory of his assurance was a blessing to his descendants, and they honored it and him. What will our descendants have to say about our faith in God?

II. God Provides Guidance (Exod. 13:20-22).

God's plan is made known to His people as they follow Him step by step. This means that there must be guidance, moment by moment, if His plan is to be worked out. He gives such guidance and it is only when His children fail to follow it that the pattern of life becomes con-

The field of divine guidance is one in which Christians have widely divergent experiences. Some know the sweet, unconfused daily experience of God's hand upon them, caring for even the minor details (or are they minor?) of life. Others have known the directive power of God in some life crisis, but not in the ordinary affairs of life. Many, and perhaps most, think of divine guidance as a spiritual theory of which the preacher talks, but know nothing of it in their own lives.

What makes this great difference? Faith-or the lack of it. Those who trust God accept and receive His blessed leadership moment by moment. It is as simple as that. Others reach out and take it when the pressure of life makes them cast themselves on God. Others simply muddle along "doing their best," which is not their best, for God is not in it.

The pillar of cloud, which became luminous at night, was ideal for the guidance of Israel. It provided shade by day from the hot sun, and a sure guide in the darkness of the night.

III. God Gives Joyous Victory (Exod. 15:17-22a).

Israel soon came against the insurmountable barrier (humanly speaking) of the Red sea. Then Pharaoh, regretting that he had released them, came up after theman impossible situation, and the people began to berate Moses. This time he stood fast in his faith and said: "Stand still and see the salvation of Jehovah"-and it came!

Then followed the song of victorious joy, which Moses wrote and the people sang. Deliverance brings joy, and forget it not, God is able to deliver those who put their trust in Him.

The application to our spiritual lives is a blessed one. Setting out on God's way does not mean that one will not have trials. They come, and quickly. We do not get farther than our Red sea when the world sees an opportunity to draw us back and comes charging at us from the rear, like Pharaoh. What to do? Trust God, and He will drown the Pharach who pursues you in the very Red sea which is now your difficulty. He will bring you through dryshod if you count on Him.

Fearful, fretting, fuszing Christian, why not "stand still" and let God work out your salvation. You cannot bear the burdens of all the world. He can, and will set you free so that you too may go forward

FRESH AIR AND RAW VEGETABLES

It is unfortunate that just at the time when wartime gasoline rationing is making it necessary for many to do more walking, some of our health authorities are blood pressure and other ailments have also the idea that daily vigorous exercise is absolutely necessary for their health; in an endeavor to take this exercise they put a strain on heart and blood-vessels. These authorities would not suggest that the healthy man or woman of middle age should not take a daily walk at a leisurely rate. Not only does the daily walk give the heart regular and rhythmical work to do, but it means the breathing in of more fresh air. Man was made to live outdoors, all his organs show this, but hours are spent indoors and minutes only are spent outdoors by most of us.

In the Journal of the Royal Institute of Public Health and Hygiene, Great Britain, Dr. Wilson Jameson, chief medical officer, ministry of health, says:

"Fresh air and fresh salads-take all you can of both should be a helpful maxim." Dr. Jameson urges people to spend as much time as possible in the open air in order that metabolism (the breaking down and building up process of the body) and bodily efficiency may be increased. The working processes of the body, the most efficient results from these processes, can be achieved without vigorous exercise. Thus another high authority warns against exercise, but here again it is against "vigorous" exercise. No Britisher "ever suggested that walking is not helpful to everybody." Coming back to fresh air and fresh salads, this parting advice is given: In view of the fact that if we were short of anything it is of vitamin C, it will be of great value if people will form the habit of eating a certain amount of raw vegetables with meals-almost any vegetable can be eaten raw provided it is finely chopped just before the meal.

While this raw vegetable daily. even though finely chopped, might not agree with nervous and emotional individuals, practically all others would be benefited by it.

Heart Murmur Not Important

Many practicing physicians can well remember the importance attached to heart murmurs during their student days in medicine and for some years afterward. Thus, in final examinations at college or for state board or provincial certificates, the location of the murmur on either side of breastbone, between what ribs, or distance from breastbone. whether murmur occurred during or after the first or second beat, were all considered vastly important, although the treatment of all murmurs was very much the same.

It was felt that after Dr. James Mackenzie pointed out that murmurs in themselves were not important, that it was the strength of the muscular walls of the heart that meant heart strength or weakness, the words "heart murmur" would gradually disappear. Not so, however, and today a physician mentioning the presence of a murmur always qualifies it by saying that a heart murmur always means just a small leak in one of the valves which will do no harm because the heart muscle is strong. Unfortunately this word "murmur" and "leaking heart" fastens itself on the mind of many patients and they begin to worry about their hearts.

It sometimes happens that a patient will consult a physician complaining about his heart and there are present also a murmur or some irregularity in the beat. He will complain of shortness of breath, pain under breastbone and a feeling of weakness. The physician examines the heart, notes the murmur or slight irregularity, and if not careful to make an exercise test, X-ray examination and an electrocardiogram, may treat the patient for serious heart disease. What the physician does not know is that the patient has been worrying about his heart for months, and may, unintentionally, exaggerate to some extent.
